OUR 31st PRODUCTION

A Hematite Release

FOREWORD

WE, the class of 1934, present this record of our achievements to you, friends and classmates. For the last four years we have taken our parts on the stage of life together and each one has played his role creditably. We shall cherish many pleasant memories and this book will ever be a reminder of the happy days spent in the Ishpeming High School.

SENIOR CLASS SONG

(Music—"Always," by Irving Berlin)

We have climbed at last
Through the narrow pass
To victory.
Colors white and blue
Taught us to be true,
And courage we know
Will flood our sad hearts anew
With thoughts, dear High School, of you.

REFRAIN:

We'll remember you—always
In our future climb—always
When the things we've planned
Need a helping hand
You will understand—always, always
Life may not be fair—always
But our love you'll share—always
Not for just an hour,
Not for just a day,
Not for just a year—but always.

Dreams could not come true
Growing old with you
Dear high school years.
We must spread our wings—
Search for higher things
Which speak of you.
Though farewell is joy and sadness
Dear classmates, teachers and school.

Words by FLOY JONES

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

On March 23, the Senior Class presented "Skidding", a three-act comedy by Aurania Rouverol. The play depicts an average American family, who is residing in the State of Idaho.

Judge James Hardy, the father, is worried over his coming nomination for district judge. Mrs. Hardy is a dutiful wife who does not know a nomination from an election, but is concerned nevertheless. Andy Hardy is the young son, who is jilted in his first love affair. Marion Hardy is the youngest daughter, just out of finishing school, and head over heels in love with Wayne Trenton III, a young man she had met in New York. Aunt Milly is a middle aged old maid who is thoroughly disgusted with Estelle Hardy Campbell, and Myra Hardy Wilcox, two older daughters whose marriage threaten to collapse, when they want to come home to mother after their first quarrel. Grandpa Hardy is a delightful old man who is painfully unawares of the hectic happenings taking place around him. Mr. Stubbins is the capable campaign manager for Judge Hardy.

The Cast for the Play in the order of their appearance:

Aunt Milly	Miriam Manley
Andy	Clarence Vinge
Mrs. Hardy	Leone Nelson
Judge James Hardy	Edlen Wuori
Grandpa Hardy	Theodore Mattson
Estelle Hardy Campbell	Ethel Scott
Marion Hardy	Mary Esther Moulton
Wayne Trenton III	George Bowden
Mr. Stubbins	George Lafkas
Myra Hardy Wilcox	Gertrude Laostari

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

In 1931 a bewildered but determined group of Juvenile players entered the portals of the All-Star Film Corporation. They were launched upon the first great step in their rise to stardom. Their goal was to become at the end of four years, full-fledged stars, and to have their names inscribed on the Honor Roll of the Academy of Arts. The stars of 1934 present their Academy Honor Roll members:

Walter Bietila
Douglas Crane
Miriam Manley
Gertrude Luostari

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The Class of nineteen hundred and thirty-four bid you welcome. The ceremonies which will take place during Commencement are designed to impress upon us the importance of graduation. They are fashioned so as to instill within us a conception of the value and worth of a high school education. The Class of '34 believe that graduation is the result of four factors working concurrently. The first and most important factor, we believe, is the parents, who deserve the largest dividend of our appreciation and gratitude because of their self-sacrifice; the second factor, the teaching staff, who endeavored to give us the best education possible; the third factor, the student body, who through their own efforts finished the prescribed course of study; and finally, the taxpayers, who furnished us with proper conditions in which to study and learn.

The members of this class, I am sure, can truthfully say that we have received ideals and goals of everlasting value for which to strive. This school has inoculated us with the ability to work to accomplish, to be scholars and to be honorable and upright citizens, to be obedient and to be honest. It has shown us how to use our leisure time: socially—class parties, organizations, and recreation; physically—basketball, football, baseball, track, and swimming; mentally—research work and enjoyment of good literature; culturally—assembly programs consisting of music, distinguished speakers, and other worthwhile features. Last, and probably the most important, it has given us an excellent preface to the great book of experience which is awaiting us.

William Lyons Phelps, author, teacher, and lecturer, selected six famous words from Shakespeare which, in my mind, express the philosophy of life which we will strive to follow. The statement, as changed by Professor Phelps, is: "To be or not to be—to live or not to live, to live richly and abundantly and eagerly, or to live dully and meanly and scarcely." School has instilled this philosophy in us in another manner—it has given us the application of it—and has done much to make this philosophy possible. It has tried to develop the individual to the greatest possible extent; and, still more vital, it has shown us that the welfare of society, as a whole, is more important than that of the individual, thus breeding in us the good Christian principle: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." I believe that if we, entering a new sphere of society, live this philosophy, we can make the world a much better place in which to live. We have been started toward that objective. If we do not succeed, we shall have only ourselves to blame, as the answer lies in us as individuals.

In closing, we want to express our gratitude to our parents, to the members of the faculty, and to our class advisor for their combined effort in piloting us through high school. I also want to express the hope that even though this class will never again exist in its present unity, it will remain as a united body of friends—the Class of '34.

CLARENCE VINGE

CLASS HISTORY

Your Honor and Ladies and Gentlemen of the Jury:

You have heard the arguments of the opposition, stating that the Class of '34 should not be allowed to go forth through the portals of this institution out into the world. The charge is that the said class has not met those high standards set by the classes which have preceded it. This charge I claim is false. To substantiate my claim, I beg to review for you the history of this class during the past four years.

It was in the fall of 1930 when the Class of '34 first enrolled as members of this institution, inexperienced but filled with great anticipation and high hopes. Since that time by it's cooperation and the participation by its members in all the activities of the school life, I contend that it has upheld those standards set by it's predecessors. Upon examining the records in athletics I find that during their Freshman year a large number of the boys reported regularly for basketball and football. In football, two won letters in their Sophomore year and three in their Junior year, and fourteen won thir letters during the past season. The football team of this year was captained by Lenwood Paddock. Because of his fine sportsmanship the following unsolicited remark was made by one of the visiting football officials: "He is one of the most courteous and gentlemanly acting football captains it has been my pleasure to contact."

In basketball I find two won letters during each of their Sophomore and Junior years, while four won letters during the season just past. The team of 1933-34 was one of the best ever to represent this school in the basketball sport. It won twenty-eight out of twenty-nine of it's games played with Michigan schools, climaxing the season by winning the U. P. Championship. Five of this year's squad were members of the Class of '34 and the Captain was none other than Bob Kemp. Bob has the reputation of having never participated in a losing game on the home floor with a Michigan team, though he played thirteen such games. The class feels that he, through his leadership and fine sportsmanship, had no small part in gaining the record and reputation this team so well deserved.

Though skiing is not a High School sport, some of the boys of the Class of '34 are competent in this field. Walter Bietila, during the past season won the following honors: second place in Class B of the National Tournament at Chicago, first place at Alston where he tied the hill record, second place at Wisconsin Rapids and in the local meet he was first in the Class A division.

Upon examination of the records in debating I find the members of this class very active. Four of its number, Mary Esther Moulton, Jean Olds, Edlund Wuorie, and Clarence Vinge, for three years have participated in district debates. During the past year Elizabeth Wahl, a new member to join our class last fall, was added to the group, making five members in this activity.

In oratory the class during its Junior year was represented by Clarence Vinge while this past season found Ruth Morgan winner of the local contest.

In the field of music the members of this class were also active. Seven girls and two boys have been four years in service. This year twenty-four of its members were helping in this very active and essential part of the school program.

I also find the records to show that in the social life of the school, this class has not fallen down. Each year found this group assembled in a social way to enjoy the fellowship of their classmates and to better enable each to more easily mingle with their fellowmen while going along life's way. Their Junior Prom and Class Play gave them an opportunity to show the public that they were also competent in these two fields. The attendance at the Junior Prom of last year was well above average, even under adverse conditions and no previous class play has been better received nor more widely appreciated.

On the School Service Corps and in the laboratories and shops it was represented by a large number of able and willing workers.

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Jury, do these facts show a lack of preparation for life's duties or unwillingness to meet the problems that will hereafter confront them? These are the facts as I find them. After this brief review of its history, I feel confident that you are convinced that this class, like its precedessors is now ready to leave these halls to take up life's tasks of tomorrow. I now leave the decision in your hands.

CLASS STATISTICS

The word statistics comes from the French word "statisique," meaning to collect a group of facts concerning a person or group of persons, and that is what I will endeavor to do with the Class of 1934. The following figures have been taken from the Government Bureau of Standards for weights and measures, the Medical records and the Principal's office.

The average weight is 134 lbs., the combined weight is approximately 16,352 lbs., or a little over eight short tons. Now, eight tons would be about $90 in "coal" cash. The weight varies from a mere 73 lbs. to a collossal 250 lbs. or more. The height ranges from 53 inches to a towering six feet four.

As respect to nationality the English are first with the grand total of 30, with the Finnish runners-up for top honors with 24. Other nationalities represented are the Swedish, French, Italian, Irish, Norwegian, Greek, and German. Some are mixed and some American.

Swimming seems to be the favorite hobby, with reading, dancing and hiking next in line.

Thirty-five have not selected a career as yet, although 13 want to be nurses, 10 engineers, 9 stenographers. Others mentioned are dentistry, teaching, and mining. One has taken the life of recluse and still another the life of a hobo. We advise the latter not to take his profession too seriously as there seems to be an over-abundance of these at the present time.

Most of the class have their birthdays in June and the fewest in October, incidentally that is the month of Hallowe'en.

The general complexion of the class is blondish but still we can point out six redheads.

The majority of the group approaches the dinner plate from the right side but six take the left and two are ambidexterous. One is left-handed in everything except writing.

The largest part of the class first saw the light of day in this city, although some were born in the metropolitan centers of Diorite and North Lake, some in Negaunee, Marquette and Palmer. Still others in West Virginia, Indiana, North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin. One each in far off Finland and sunny Italy.

Thirty-six members have received awards in athletics or forensics.

Twenty-eight did not attend the first grade in Ishpeming and it is interesting to know that some cannot remember where they started their education. Fifty-five want to further their knowledge by going to college.

After the discussion of women's rights, Mr. Maynard may be anxious to know that 39 of our fair sex intend or at least have hopes of becoming housewives.

Many have not passed the stage of adolescence as ten have not yet contracted the mumps, measles or whooping cough. Still others have reached the manly stage whereby they have needs of the art of shaving. Forty-three possess the scars of their first attempts.

Due to their fond love of study 23 wear spectacles. Also 51 use cosmetics, but it is not known whether they are boys or girls.

Blue is the predominant color for the eyes, with brown and hazel-green next in line. Some have grey and one black, but I was unable to find out whether or not they were natural or otherwise.

The choice of actresses is Kathryn Hepburn first, Janet Gaynor second, and Joan Blondell third. Robert Montgomery has taken the place of Clark Gable in the girls' eyes, with James Cagney and Lew Ayres second and third. Tom Mix is still the favorite of one and Mickey Mouse of another.

One member comes from a family of 13, and eight are the only child. No wonder we are such a spoiled class.

Fifteen can't remember having a doctor's services although one claims to have broken a wrist. Can he take it? The class as a group has mended 21 broken arms, six legs, four collar-bones, three noses and a few fingers. One individual claims the record with an elbow, wrist, collar-bone and finger, but Billy Millman is about that fragile.

Only 22 are working for pay as they pursue their learning.

There is only one Socialist in the group, the majority still clinging to the Grand Old Party.

As to the number of our class who have dropped out and the per cent of the class graduating, the following material was available:

The Freshman enrollment of our class was 203. This includes 22 repeaters. The pupils entering for the first time numbered 181. Of this group 142 came from the Grammar School. Thirty-five per cent of these dropped out of school. Of the total number of 181, 70 dropped school or 38 per cent. The percentage of those who dropped school is less than the average for four-year high schools throughout the country. The Bureau of Education Bulletin No. 40 reveals that 51.7 per cent of high school pupils drop out of school. In other words 13 per cent more of our class remained in high school than the average for Senior classes at large. Sixty-eight per cent of those who dropped out, ranked in the lower half of the class in scholarship when entering as Freshman. On the other hand 79 per cent of those elected to the National Honor Society ranked in the upper fourth of the class when entering as Freshman. Also 63 per cent of the original class is graduating, which is a higher average than the high schools at large.

PROLOGUE

After a thorough and vigorous scouring of the dark past of the Class of 1934, we disclose a bright and shining future. This luster of fulfilled desires and glow of promise is only attained through persistent use of our magic cleanser. Our search in every nook and cranny has brought to light many hidden ambitious and secret hopes which were hitherto unknown.

"You're connected with Mars," astronomer Fred Alto, and to keep those connections we give this wire.

"Who's afraid of traffic" when Lawrence Amell is the policeman in Little America? A whistle to help you at the pole.

You must have your "hands always lovely," Marie Amell, to be a successful stenographer. Here's a bottle of Hind's Honey and Almond cream.

"I've learned my lesson," says Evelyn Anderson, who is now practicing culinary art. May "Pillsbury's Best" produce a perfect cake!

Here's some advice for Helen Anderson—a kindergarten teacher—"Naughtiness—is it always the child's fault?" For Helen—this book of nursery rhymes.

"Sing a song of flavor—a tumblerful of health." This "imprisoned health" for our nurses, Elaine Moffat and Marie Anderson. (Gift: Tomato juice).

"It awakens the senses"—an apt description for Blanche Andrew's new food creations. This hot pad to keep her from burning her fingers.

"Dine and dance at the new Aragon Ballroom," featuring Bill Andrew's sixty-piece orchestra. A baton to keep the sixty in sway.

"Faster than ever," shouts Edward Antilla as he sits behind the wheel in a huge Greyhound bus. With this all-day sucker he can successfully bribe interfering traffic cops.

Raymond Bennett and Roland St. Andre—"Sure hits." Their rise to fame as baseball stars is assured if they but make use of this yeast.

"What a fool she is." Lucille Bergdahl is a promising artist, but she insists on teaching school. This arithmetic book ought to make her change her mind.

"When things look blackest" to Genevieve Bertucci, ardent social worker among dusky natives, a dab of this red paint will brighten her outlook upon life.

An alarm clock for Walter Bietila, this big business executive, who "spreads his wings in the wee sma' hours of the morning."

Roller skates to help Mae Billings take those "99 million steps a day" when she is a nurse.

To June Blomgren, the author of "Memories that Bless and Burn," we give this candle to light you in your inspirations.

"The height of fashion" has been reached by George Bowden, movie idol. This iron will help you keep a razor-like crease in your trousers.

"Why waste those golden hours?" ask Helen Carlson and Bernice

Brown, librarians. To Helen we give a crossword puzzle. To Bernice, a jig-saw.

"Women have made me an egotist," confesses floorwalker George Butler. For George these eight little iron men to keep him down.

"Light as a feather" are the words which describe Grace Cain, petite dancer of a new musical comedy. This book on "How to Keep Young," we hope will prolong her career.

To Henry Caley and Ronald Thomas, New York's bachelors, we present these bachelor buttons to "top off" their banquet tables.

"They're toasted," at Lydia Carlson's tea garden. This knife will scrape her burnt toast.

"When it rains it pours." The weather man never pleases everybody, so Richard Carlyon will need these ear muffs to shut out some of the complaints directed toward him.

"There's no substitute for skill" we remind Clarence Cesare by giving him this abacus.

"He's young but he knows his airplanes." When Raphael Charbonneau is flying above the clouds trying to break the world's endurance record, this stick of gum may help him steady his nerves.

William Chynoweth is now the mayor of the "City where people enjoy life." Here's the key we may like to use sometimes.

A dainty little knife that "Doc" Crane will find necessary in carrying out his policy, "Let's start below the surface."

"Kiss the cook and tell her" (gently of course) that this double acting baking powder will bring fame to Lucille DeVold's cakes at the new million dollar hotel at Humboldt.

Use Jean Dixon's "99 44/100% pure" beautifying soap. Come in and get a free bar of soap at her shop.

"Rust, I've got your number," says Forest Ranger Thomas Dobson, peering through his telescope.

"Keeps you fit from top to toe." For Lillian Franson who will "hitch her wagon to a star" and grow famous through her Swedish massage in Hollywood—this wagon.

"The days of horses are gone forever," so Clifford Gall takes to the air. He is known in the air world for speed and recklessness. This parachute might come in handy some day.

"Join the navy," shouts Dougall Goddard, and "let's go places." A notebook to keep the dates.

"Now she's proud of her table," is said about Helen Gregg, the homemaker, especially with this new unbreakable tinware.

"There's more in the paper than news," since Evelyn Guy has been writing the society column. For Evelyn the book "Who's What in Society."

"Irja Hanninen is the cook in Diorite town
And she's wondrous wise.
She puts good spinach in every can
And puts sparkles in your eyes."
Gift: A can of spinach.

"A scientist needs healthy nerves," says Wilho Hanninen in a recent lecture. This can of postum is to help him in his work.

"The world loves a winner." That's why we're so crazy about Evelyn Hannuksela, who cops all the prizes in dare-devil aeronautics. With this American Flag she can claim any undiscovered planets that she may run into.

"Write to me and let me help you with your problems," invites Hettie Harper, who conducts a love-lorn column. For Hettie, this memorandum book.

With this glue Gladys Harvey's waves will "stick to the end."

Pardon me, but "a little dash of Wildroot will clean up that dandruff," says Jean Hassett, to whom we present this package to use in her beauty parlor.

If you want to "join the parade to quality," follow us to Margery Hawes' Art Shop. A padlock will keep out the thieves.

"Old age, I'm laughing at you," says nurse Elaine Heard. You will always "be seventeen" when you use this perfume.

"Everybody's tinting her nails," says Victoria Heighes. This bottle of colored nail polish will bring everyone into her Beauty Shoppe.

"You can't afford a dull head in business," especially if that business is cartooning, as Emil Hill's is. This Little Big Book of Mickey Mouse for Emil.

"I'd walk a mile" and many more, says Ed. Holman, chief engineer at the Isle Royale State Park Project. For Ed. this compass.

"John breaks the tape," and becomes the champion track runner. John Hooper will be able to make use of this can of Dr. Scholl's foot powder.

Robert Jaedecke is the "Speedy Stitcher," of the surgical world. These needles to "sew up" the world's record.

"For the highest degree of throat comfort." To Earl Jandron, who is destined to be heard over the leading broadcasting stations, these medicated throat discs to keep him in tune.

"You seem to take delight in hurting me," complains one of Jean Johnson's patients. Don't most dentists? Maybe these pliers will be less painful.

"Here's the secret" of Floy Jones' success as a poet—this ruler with which she measures out the feet.

To Helen Jurma, Abbie's Irish Rose, we "say it with flowers."

Attention! Leslie Kampinen and Carl Kurin—"Don't fight fires this ineffective way" by using these sprinklers when you are C. C. C.'s.

"I mean business," says Robert Kemp, but nobody believes him because he's a lazy southern gentleman. Here's a cane to lean on.

When Martha Koski finds herself in a "serious situation," and is tangled in a mess of debits and credits, this comb will come in handy.

"The cards are stacked against you," Irja Rajala nnd Lula Laakko, if you do not give up your positions as private secretaries, and give your talents to art.

"The world's before him," Under-Secretary of Agriculture, No. 3, George Lafkas—to him a rake "to pull in" more votes.

"In spring a he-man's fancy turns to sport," James Lafkas, so we'll give you this tape measure to break at the next Olympic track meet.

"One dress or three?" inquires Jean Larson, dress designer. For her a fashion book.

"Sleepless nights? Why I should say not," states nurse Genevieve LeMay. "Not with Ovaltine."

This ladle is for Leslie Larson, Chef of the Stevens Hotel. He knows "it's taste that tells."

"Happy days are here again" since Gertrude Luostari reconsidered her contract for playing Romeo and Juliet. This book mark will help keep her place.

To Gladys Maddock, enthusiastic politician and prohibitionist, we present this coco cola and beg her to "pause and refresh herself."

The "perfect balance" of the Olympic diving champion, Edna Maki, will never fail with this scale.

"Ride 'em Cowboy." A bandana to keep Edward Maki in the spirit of the West.

Mayme Maki, whose "crowning achievement of half a century" has swayed the Paris hat designers, will need these peanuts as models.

When Harold Makinen, professor of Physics at the University of Champion, receives this screw driver, we know he'll say, "I'm handy Andy now."

"Come on over to Karren Mandley's studio. The pictures are marvelous." We give Karren this beret to look perky in her studio.

"His lordship was highly excited" when court physician Miriam Manley reported mumps in the court. This quarantine sign will keep everyone away.

"Fresh from the gardens." Walfred Mantela, our second Luther Burbank, will want this potato to use in his new experiment—a skinless potato.

"Possession makes the heart beat faster," they say. We'll give Robert Markert this football to have when he's coach at the U. of M.

"I walked into a habit of a lifetime" when I took part in the class play, says Theodore Mattson. These chains to recall his first starring part.

"It needed a man's touch," so William Millman became an exclusive architect. We hope this ruler will help him construct bigger and better things.

"Think what 15 minutes a day will do for you" at Ruth Morgan's community house. A picture of Jane Adams as an inspiration.

"Think what these exclusive advantages mean to you. 'Clothes bought directly from Paris'," says Mary Esther Moulton who buys for a large department store. For Mary Esther a reel to reel in her line.

Professor William Snapnoggle Moulton has invented a "bait that never fails." For Bill, this bait box.

"When do we eat?" the customers ask Harry Nault, the proprietor of the Drake Hotel. A package of all-spice for variety.

"When better bridges are built, Clarence Nault and Lenwood Paddock will build them." For a start we present them with a nut and bolt.

Leone Nelson, as governess to the Van de Ritz young 'uns, you'll have to "keep going with Pep."

This gavel, "the mark of leadership," Verner Norell will find useful when president of the Vasa lodge.

"I'd surely miss your cheery song," Jean Olds, if you'd ever give up singing on the radio. This Singer Oil to prevent any such catastrophe.

"Watch her step," meaning Mary Paris, of course, who has done some high stepping and right now is engaged as private nurse in the Mussolini family. This ladder will help her reach the top.

Send for the new free catalogue on "Planting Roses" from Lillian Parsons. This pair of canvas gloves you may use in your florist shop, Lillian.

Here is a skipping rope for Dorothy Paull to use in her gymnasium for women desiring to "keep fit at forty."

The life of Marion Pearce is a "story with a happy ending." She has arisen to the position of private secretary to John Dillinger, now Chief of Police in Chicago. When work is slack, she can busy herself with this crochet hook.

Since "the country is getting back on its feet," no down-at-the-heel look. Hence some rubber heels for your oxfords, Eleanor Pennala and Verna Swanberg, to use when you are nurses.

"Keep those shoe bills from running wild." As booter for the Parisian Shoe Company, Harold Pepin receives this famous corn remedy.

"Terrific dust storm completely obscures sun for one hour," states Viljo Pesola, eminent scientist. This alarm clock ought to bring him back to earth.

There is "style in every stitch" designed by Ann Peterson, whose dress creations are known the world over. This paper doll book contains many valuable models.

Elizabeth Phillips, the globe is "yours for a song" now that you are one of the world's dramatic successes.

Irene Racine will not lack "Hollywood Beauty in Her Home" with these glossy pans.

To our village blacksmith, George Ray, who stands under the spreading chestnut tree, "a symbol of service," this bottle of Sloan's Liniment.

A lasso to "hold your man," Frank Roti of the Canadian Royal Mounted Police.

"The world's finest music from the world's finest ballroom, ladies and gentlemen." Eric Rundman, the proprietor, with this big diamond stick pin will make you feel right at home.

"First he whispers, then he shouts." This will describe Wilho Ruohomaki, fisherman at Lake Bancroft, when he pulls in a catfish with this frog.

"Stay on the top" with these water wings, Frances Ryan, and your renown as a swimming instructor will never fail.

To Philip Sarvello, "the great imitator" we give this book of jokes to replenish his supply for his next comedy.

"We want pie" baked by Chrissie Scarffe's Home Economics Class. A rolling pin to use in your classes, Chrissie.

A kitty for governess, Jean Schjonberg, to help amuse the Vanderberg kiddies. Assure them that "it won't scratch."

For "the height of good taste" in interior decorating, we present this step ladder to Ethel Scott.

For snowbound automobiles "them days in gone forever," since we have Paul Silas' new motor sled. This horn will announce his arrival.

Stuart Silas, certified public accountant, thinks a ruler will be "his greatest ally" in keeping his accounts straight.

William Solomon, agent for the Buy Then Die Insurance Company, "will no longer be afraid of the lonely road "with this new radio."

Alice Stanaway, who in her laboratory discovered "57 varieties" of the Fan Dance germ needs this magnifying glass to promote this beneficial research work.

Here are Dr. Scholl's corn plasters for nurse Hildur Suomula. May you always "keep your feet off your mind."

"They Satisfy." Surely, when they are as efficient as Private Secretary Hilia Suomula. This weight will hold down the boss' bills.

"Wheaties" for Rudolph Swanson, world's champion motorcycle racer, because "it's the breakfast of champions."

William Tobin, our Barnacle Bill, must need this hand lotion to preserve that "skin you love to touch" after scrubbing decks!

Cecelia Torma will cherish this cook book for she knows that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach."

William Trebilcock, the big financier, announces in the New York Times that "he is taking his dollars West this year!" Don't you think you need a check-book, "Winkie?"

"Just ask a fireman what's best for burns" and Willard Tregear will say, "this unguentine."

They laughed when Bob Trembath "sat down to play," but now he's a runner-up to Paul Whiteman. For Bob, this book (just for old time s sake) "Learn to Play Piano This New Easy Way."

"He's got his teeth in this job"—quotes the newspaper after James Trosvig succeeds in excavation in ancient Egypt. This little shovel will help him to uncover the earth's lost treasures.

"Maybe you were that boy." This handy pocket, ideal for keeping tools from going astray, is just the thing for Anelio Turbessi when he is Henry Ford's master mechanic.

A high hat for Katherine Turgeon, the social secretary of the Astors. ("Talk about your aristocracy.")

"Before you buy, find out the truth," advises Dr. Clarence Vinge, L.L.D., Ph. D. in his popular book on economics. For Clarence a book of Ripley's "Believe It Or Not."

"No need for empty purses if you follow my household plans," says Betty Wahl, economics teacher. A budget to set a good example to your pupils.

"Why waste those golden hours?" This Krazy Kat book for Bertha Walline when she is on the staff of the Congressional Library.

Edward White, "it's the height of good taste" to use this cream in getting a smooth tan for your profession as life guard at Palm Beach.

Professor Wuori, "you'll do better on this 'dated coffee' while theorizing."

CLASS WILL

Know Ye, that we the Senior Class of 1934 of the Ishpeming High School, located in the Eighth Ward of the City of Ishpeming, in the heart of the Lake Superior region of the largest of the terrestrial planets revolving around the Sun, in the Galaxy, Milky Way; feeling the chill of rigoris mortis creeping up our groins, do hereby make our last will and testament.

First: We order that all of the friends and relatives of the Senior Class do assemble in their best summer finery on the nights of June 13th and 15th to mourn (or rejoice) the passing of this well known body. We also order that this will be publicly read before the stroke of 12, on midnight, June 13th, 1934, under penalty of having its recipients deprived of the multitudinous benefits which follow.

Second: We freely give our thanks to the Board of Education and to the long and patiently suffering teachers. If there is any teacher who now has a crook in his back or a few new gray hairs due to our inability to grasp the profundities of learning or to our misdirected energies in the Study Hall; to him or to her we offer our most humble apologies.

Third: To the Junior Class, now only one year distant from evacuation from these halls, we leave the unsolved problem, "What Shall I Be?" We suggest looking in "Careers." We also bequeath our exalted position on condition that they outgrow their conceit, even though they are good.

Fourth: To the Sophomores we leave the wish that when they attain Juniorship, they will outgrow the meaning of their former name—wise fools.

Fifth: To the Freshmen, the under-dog of the high school, we reserve a few brass tacks to hold them down. However, if the Freshman party is an indication of future developments, they should make a brilliant success and be worthy members to the "Four-Hundred." Let our wishes enlighten your load.

Sixth: To all eighth-grade graduates of Ishpeming and points west—North Lake, Diorite and West Ishpeming,—we leave the privilege next fall of wandering aimlessly for several days among these halls. However we caution them not to "wander" all of the year.

Seventh: To you, our parents and friends we leave our thanks and we hope that you're satisfied.

Eighth: We hereby name and proclaim the most sagacious use of verbal inexactitude, Major Hoople (our hero) to be the executor of this our last Will and Testament.

JUNIOR RESPONSE

You have just had the great privilege of listening to the Senior Class Will, a very valuable document. As I look about me, I see that you have complied with their first request, and have indeed assembled to witness the last rites and ceremonies performed for this august body. We shall let the Seniors judge for themselves, from the attire and facial expressions of those present, with what emotions the audience observes the passing of the power of the Class of '34.

Study-Hall teachers admit that they will be relieved next year not to have the Seniors rush, at the beginning of each period, for certain reserve books. "An Apology For Idlers" and "Modern Myths and Legends" have been much consulted by those frequently "called on the carpet," while the more serious-minded have been reading "The Art of Writing Poetry," "Winning Orations," and "Suggestions on Report Writing." The socially inclined have referred to "Secrets of Attractive Dress" and "A Dictionary of Dates." Those who have out-of-town friends have often found "How to Write Letters That Win" useful, but in some cases they have later asked for "Love's Labour Lost" or "Misery and It's Causes." Those who are taking part in tonight's program have recently asked for "Experiments in Writing," "Speeches for All Occasions" and "Songs in Many Keys," with an increasing demand for "All's Well That Ends Well."

The members of the Junior Class give a vote of thanks to the Senior Class for the suggestion as to the determination of their careers. The Juniors expect to find the chapters on "Recreation Leadership," "Exterior Decoration" and "Social Reform As a Life Work" much thumb-marked by this year's Seniors. We presume that interest has also been shown in the sections on "Cosmetic Chemistry" and "The Future of Dramatic Art." It occurs to us that a more diligent study of the material on "The Diplomatic Service" might prove useful.

Modestly, the Juniors admit that they are good, as members of other Junior classes before them have admitted it. Since the Seniors have bequeathed their exalted position to us on condition that we outgrow our conceit, we wish to state that there are several Seniors who have shown a tendency to outgrow their hat-sizes and are greatly in need of elastic hat-bands. We suggest that the Seniors might have adopted as their class motto, "People in glass houses should not thrown stones.'

The Sophomores have requested me to kindly and tactfully inform the departing Seniors that it is better to be wise fools than just fools.

May these lofty Seniors never forget that they were Freshmen once, not long ago, and we deplore the fact that they were not presented with something even more effective than brass tacks, to hold them down.

We think that next year's Freshmen will be less inclined to continue their wanderings next year, since none of the occupants of this platform will be present to set bad examples by their social chats and strolls in the halls.

The parents of the graduates have asked me to state that they are proud indeed, to note that all the Seniors are as dignified tonight as they attempt to be daily in their respective homes.

In spite of our flippant remarks, we feel a sharp pang when we think of the departure of the Seniors, and we are sure that the faculty and students will miss them individually and collectively. We regret that we must say farewell, but our best wishes go with them and we hope that their highest ambitions will be fulfilled.

MEMORIAL ADDRESS

The early Greeks assembled for entertainment on their picturesque hillsides allowing nature unadorned to serve their purpose, Elizabethan theatre-goers were accustomed to crude endeavors of scenic appearance, and now in this twentieth century, stage representations require sufficient scenery to produce in the audience that illusion of environment which the text invites. Throughout the universe there is a continuous evolution, the same is true in the theatre; the group mores of an age are mirrored on the stage and people at all times manifest deep interest in these social activities. The slopes forming the amphitheatre of Greece, the elaborated courtly array of the settings at the Globe, and now our own realistic theatre, each in its own guise serves a worthy purpose to its immediate audience as well as portraying the ideals of a group.

At this commencement time it has become traditional for each graduating class to leave behind a memorial for our school. We, as a class, find it fitting to continue this tradition, and the dramatic interest of the community by bestowing upon this institution a rug, sincerely believing that the dramatic and theatric interests of the past shall be continued in the future. In doing this, we have a two-fold purpose:—a desire to give direct service, and the innate desire which is inherent in every soul to perpetuate his memory. The Great Commoner said: "Service is the measure of greatness; it always has been true; it is true today; and it always will be true." When in the springtime a power touches the cold and pulseless heart of the buried acorn and makes it burst forth from its prison walls, this power in his apparent prodigality does not waste the evening sighing zephyrs, the blade of grass and nothing comes without a cause—then our universal longing for continuance takes on form in a materialistic nature.

The same sequence of opportunities embodied in our school life are open to everyone, and thence, ultimately, lend a socializing betterment for mankind. We know that no deeds which shall not outlive the duration of letters and knowledge among men can prolong a memorial; but our object by this gift is to show our own deep sense of the value and importance of the achievements of education, and by presenting this rug to the eye we keep alive valuable sentiments and foster a constant regard for the principles of honest citizenship. Human beings are composed, not of reason only, but of imagination also, and sentiment; and that is neither wasted nor misapplied which is appropriated to the purpose of giving right direction to that sentiment. We leave a memorial of our conviction of that unmeasured benefit which has been conferred on this, our Class of 1934.

SALUTATORY—THE TREND OF EDUCATION

Friends, we are very happy that you are here tonight to participate in our graduation exercises. We extend to you a very cordial welcome.

My classmates and I are being graduated from a small division of a great national educational system, which is the result of careful and diligent planning under the leadership of men like Horace Mann, Benjamin Franklin, and Thomas Jefferson. When our forefathers declared "that all men are created equal" they had in mind a public educational system which would present to all an equal opportunity to attain success in the world. The American people have evidenced lasting faith in this system by their fine support, financial and moral, during past generations.

But here and there in our country today, are heard faint rumblings of protest and disagreement, which in time may present a serious threat to the unity of our people. The one protest which is commanding the greater part of our attention concerns the question of finance. Many claim that education receives a disproportionate share of the nation's wealth, that we are spending too much to fulfill educational ideals. Before anyone believes such a thing he must examine a few statistics on the expenditures of our country.

Elementary and secondary schools in the year 1932-33 spent $1,900,000,000. Approximately $1,982,000,000 was spent on gasoline. Smoking tobacco sales reached $1,212,000,000. Movies, prize-fights, cabarets, and other entertainments took in $1,240,000,000. In normal times we spend per year $2.60 on candy, theatres and jewelry, for every dollar invested in schools; fifty per cent more for life insurance premiums, and five hundred per cent more on cars and other motor vehicles. The average cost of educating a student in the Ishpeming schools for a year of 182 days is approximately $56.67, or little more than thirty cents per day. This means that the pupil can spend a day in school under trained instruction, surrounded by advantages in literature, art, science,—all for the price of a movie or of a day's supply of cigars.

Are not these facts significant of our neglect? Shall we then complain about the cost of education when we squander such an enormous sum on unessential trifles? It does not seem possible that we can continue in this manner to sacrifice our educational opportunities to pleasure.

Our first duty is to realize the role education plays in our lives, not so much as it affects individuals, but as it affects conditions in general. Consider, for example, what educaton has done for national development. Our national income has increased five-fold in thirty years, and national wealth has increased four-fold during the same period. Circulation of library books has increased ten-fold in a half century. Illiteracy has declined from six per cent to four and three-tenths per cent in a decade; life expectancy has increased eighteen per cent since 1900. These facts and figures should impress us with the far-reaching values of education and make us more aware of our duty to the future.

We may economize in whatever fields we wish to all good purpose, except one—education. We cannot afford to reduce expenditures if such reduction will tend to interfere with the growth of our children and progress of the next generation. And it is not only to the children that we are obligated. It is also to our nation. We pride ourselves that our country is democratic, governed by the people, and for the people's welfare. But trained citizens are needed to govern a democracy. Our policy then that the poor man has an equal hand in the government is all right only as long as that poor man has sufficient education and instruction.

It has been stated that the education of the children constitutes the first mortgage on the wealth of the community and the state. Let us see what national leaders say to confirm this statement. Herbert Hoover voiced his opinion on education when he said, "Self-government can succeed only through an instructed electorate; the more complex the problems of a nation become, the greater the need for more and more advanced instruction."

Although Alfred E. Smith is on the opposite side of the fence from Hoover politically, apparently he shares the same views on the matter of education, for he said, "A state can afford to lose time on the construction of a road, a bridge, or a building, and by speeding up construction at a later time possibly catch up, but education must be continuous —at no time in our history was there greater need for the influence of education upon our future citizens. It goes without saying that at this critical period it would be a great mistake to weaken the services of any of our educational institutions. They should be strengthened no matter what the drain may be."

All data and evidence points to the probability that the next generation will find even greater changes in our educational system than preceding generations have witnessed. The problems of crime, of law enforcement, of capital and labor, of unemployment, of stability and security, of family life, of war and peace, of international relations and co-operation—all major problems of our day, depend for their solutions upon intelligent thinking and acting. To be sure, we cannot say if these problems will be more pressing tomorrow than they are today, but others will arise that will demand solutions, just as they have arisen yesterday and today. Civilization is imposing not fewer adjustments on the individual—but more adjustments. The economic situaton and the machine age are demanding that an individual be absorbed in the life of the community not at an earlier age but at a more mature age.

These facts emphasize the failure of social thinking to keep pace with science and invention. It is thus evident that the crying need of the age and of the future is to lessen the gap between the two—not widen it. The need is more educational opportunities, not fewer. The demand is not for retrenchment but for growth. Let us keep in mind always that the school began in response to a need, and it must continue to grow in response to a need.

DOUGLAS CRANE

EDUCATION AND AN ORDERLY SOCIETY

Common sense, sanity, peace, order—these are the watchwords upon which the welfare of human society depends at all times, and especially in our own troubled days. Sense, sanity, peace, and order! To propagate and establish these, to build up a society in which human suffering is reduced to its minimum—that is the task which challenges every one of us.

In building up and maintaining a peaceful and orderly society, we may work through various established institutions. We can employ the courts and the police forces. We can employ the newspapers, the magazines, and various government publications. We can employ our clubs and lodges, our homes and churches. But one of the most powerful agencies through which we can work in establishing an orderly society, is our system of public schools.

The task belongs not only to those who are directly in charge of the educational system. All of us can do our share. In the first place, we can give to our schools the necessary financial support, which ultimately is wise economy in that it reduces the enormous expenditures involved in combatting crime and disorder. Prevention is better than cure, and always less expensive. We can help, also, by supporting the school administrative officers in their efforts to provide activities and facilities whereby the pupils will be enabled to make worthy use of their leisure time. We can support our teachers in their attempts to make the pupils see the facts and discard outworn ideas. We can encourage them in their efforts to instil in the minds of the pupils the habit of sane, sensible, and scientific thinking,—which is the foundation for peace and order.

In making my plea for an orderly society, I naturally imply that there is a certain amount of disorder prevailing. It is not necessary for me to prove that. A mere glance at the daily papers will convince us that an epidemic of crime is ravaging the country; that cheating, swindling, and racketeering are stifling honest and legitimate business; that riots and threats of revolution are daily menacing human welfare.

What can the public schools do to establish and maintain an orderly society? First, let us see what the schools can do to prevent crime and delinquency. Prevention of crime can not be accomplished by such external means and methods as punishment, control of fire arms, or effective police work. In order to control crime, we must discover the causes. And after we have discovered the causes, our task is to remove them. The criminal career, or at least the preparation for a criminal career, usually begins during the years that the child is in school. It is during the school years, then, that the potential criminal must be changed into a worthy citizen. Dr. Thrasher of New York University, who has made a three-year study of boy gangs in New York City says: "The only effective method of crime prevention is through education."

The school can provide various amusements, recreations, activities which will direct the pupils' thoughts toward a wholesome and orderly life. For one thing the school can furnish wholesome reading material, material which will replace the numerous Wild West and gangster stories that clutter every news stand, material which will give the young reader a sane and reasonable outlook upon life.

The moving pictures, according to many good authorities, are one of the most powerful agencies which throw a glamour and a romance on the life of the criminal, which glorify the gangster and his cunning ways, which even at times represent the clever outlaw as the hero of the story. What can the schools do to counteract this harmful influence upon the minds of the children? A few schools throughout the country are making attempts to furnish the best English and American classics in moving picture form to their pupils. This is a practice which can be adopted by most of the better schools, and which, if carried out consistently, may go far to satisfy the pupils craving for film entertainment.

Many noted educators agree that the so-called "fads and frills," among which we find music and art, are helpful in preventing juvenile crime and delinquency. Music and art make school life more interesting; consequently many pupils are engaged in wholesome activities during their after school hours, when they might otherwise be out on the streets or in some other environment that tends to foster anti-social behavior.

Authorities on crime prevention and juvenile delinquency emphasize the necessity for the school to furnish recreational activities outside the school hours for the children of the community. Athletic fields and gymnasiums should be available to all pupils as much as possible. It will of course be necessary that those recreational activities be directed and supervised. Several of the large cities are experimenting with this form of crime prevention, and the results so far have been better than they had anticipated. Police Commissioner O'Ryan, of New York City, comments favorably on the recreational activities of the school, saying: "They occupy the imagination and the physical and mental activities of youth, and to that extent keep youth away from unsound tendencies."

Another method for preventing delinquency is to organize boys' clubs within the community, which will provide a large variety of activities for the boys outside of school hours. These clubs should be under the direction and supervision of the schools. Among the activities of these clubs there are, besides athletics, stamp collecting, nature study, boat building, tap dancing, music and art. Certain districts in New York City report that clubs of this kind have reduced to a remarkable degree the gang spirit and juvenile crimes within the district.

What can the schools do in regard to the injustices that result from swindling and dishonesty? The swindler will exist as long as there are people who let themselves be swindled. The task of the public schools, then, is to build up in the minds of their pupils an attitude of constant doubting and questioning, an attitude that searches and sees through the designs of the swindler. The pupils should be cautioned against all pretenders, such as fortune tellers, quacks, and dishonest salesmen. They should be encouraged to investigate for themselves, rather than to believe blindly what they read and what they are told.

The scientific attitude is necessary in order to protect our future citizens against the astonishing superstitions that still prevail in this country. Some shrewd and practical business men will not launch any big enterprise without first consulting a gypsy, for they believe that the gypsy can reveal to them the mysteries of success—mysteries hidden in the lines of the palm. Many wordly-wise stock brokers, before venturing upon some important speculation, will steal into the secret haunts of a weird and squint-eyed crystal gazer to discover whether their contemplated ventures will be a success. Numerous witcheries and follies of this kind prevail among all classes of people.

A scientific training is necessary in order to prevent the abuse of science itself for dishonest purposes. Science, among the unenlightened, is a sort of deity that can perform all kinds of miracles; and everything that is offered to them in the name of science they believe and accept. Many advertisers take advantage of these popular superstitions about science, and confront their prospectve buyers with scientific-sounding statements from pretended celebrities, such as doctors from Berlin or Paris. When these doctors, who are the high priests of science, say you should eat certain trade-marked products every day, you cannot well refuse without subjecting yourself to serious consequences. It is the task of the schools to enlighten our future citizens on this subject, to make them see what is truly scientific and what is mere shady advertising clothed in scientific terms.

The attitude of questioning and doubting is necessary in order to protect the population against every form of dishonest business. Our laws are lenient with those who swindle and defraud the unsuspecting masses out of millions of dollars every year. "Let the buyer beware!" is the rule upon which our business law is founded. If the buyer ignorantly signs on the dotted line, the laws give him no relief against the prevaricator who induced him to sign. "Let the buyer beware!" they say. If our advertisers fill the magazines and radio programs with bold and glaring untruths, our laws say, "Let the buyer beware!" If quacks and charlatans bleed the poor believers to their last dollar by selling them medicines that will cure every imaginable ailment, all our laws have to say is, "Let the buyer beware!" It, then, becomes the duty of our educational system to teach our buyers how and when to beware.

In order to establish and maintain an orderly society, we must prevent riots and remove danger of revolution. A stable and efficient government is necessary for that. The public school can do much to insure such stability and efficiency. Jefferson realized that universal education is necessary in a democracy, and he insisted upon the establishment of free public schools. DeWitt Clinton, who is known as the "protagonist of education for citizenship," says: "Without the rights of suffrage, liberty can not exist * * * but the right of suffrage can not be exercised in a salutary manner without intelligence * * * upon education we must therefore rely for the purity, the preservation, and the perpetuation of republican government."

When these men speak of the perpetuation of government, they do not mean that the government should remain static, that no changes should be brought about. The founders of our government realized that human society is a dynamic, an ever-changing, society. They realized that with the inevitable social and economic changes it would in time become necessary to make changes in government. It is for that reason that they provided for amendments to the constitution, whereby the necessary changes in government can be brought about in a peaceful and orderly manner.

The administration of President Roosevelt has been severly criticised because of the adoption of measures that involve a change from the former polices. We must not look upon changes of policies as an evil. Our forefathers did not establish a system that would be perfect for all times. The present economic disturbances, which have resulted in starvation for millions of people, have created many problems which our forefathers could not foresee. Nothing is sacred merely because it is old or because it is traditional. Nothing is infallible merely because it has been effective for several generations. Democracy is not anarchy. When society is in a state of confusion and disorder, we no longer have democracy in the true sense of the word. If changes from former policies are necessary in order to prevent rioting and possibly revolution, let such changes be brought about in an orderly fashion by an enlightened citizenry.

Our present state of poverty and disorder may be attributed largely to our laissez-faire policies in business, to our practice of ruthless competition, and to our widespread success philosophy. In order to avoid poverty and starvation and possibly revolution, competition will have to give way to co-operation, the laissez-faire policies will have to be replaced by a planned economy, a success philosophy will have to be supplanted by a philosophy of social responsibility. The public schools can best lay the foundaton for this new social order.

Then, since education is the most powerful means by which crime can be prevented, by which swindling and dishonesty can be curbed, by which riots and revolutions can be averted—in short, since education is the most effective means by which an orderly society can be established and maintained, we should do all in our power to keep the public schools functioning efficiently. Human happiness depends upon peace and order, and it is through education that permanent peace and order can be made secure.

EDUCATION AND THE DEPRESSION

"Let us resolve not to make the children pay for the depression!" This is the plea of our Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Ickes.

Have we done so? Have you, the parents, in your anxious struggles with the depression, unwittingly shoved on to the shoulders of your children the burdens of the depression as they affect the schools?

If you have, it can be said in your favor that you did so unwittingly and perhaps in some cases unwillingly. But have you done so?

The answer to this question must lie in the statistics and records of the last three years. Let us see what these records tell. First let us look at our own home community. Fortunately, we have not been hit as hard as many other communities in the United States.

Current expenses have decreased 27 per cent in the last three years.

The salaries paid to teachers, 28 per cent.

Taxes have been reduced about $3.63 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, or about $10 per typical family home in Ishpeming.

Sixty-seven per cent of the persons teaching in the Ishpeming schools are receiving a salary of less than $1,050 a year, set down in the N. R. A. code as the lowest wage for any sort of skilled labor.

The normal Ishpeming term is 190 days. Compare this with 246 days in Denmark and Germany, or 210 days in France, Sweden, and England.

Last year our term was cut to 175 days, 29 per cent less than inflation, depression, and war-ridden Germany.

Conditions for the State of Michigan are much worse than the conditions for Ishpeming. This state has allowed its educational institutions to degenerate unbelievably.

It ranks with the poorest in the United States in regard to the number of rural schools closed,—only two states exceeding Michigan,—Arkansas and Kansas.

There are between 12,000 and 15,000 unemployed teachers. Those who are working are doing so on starvation wages; some getting $25 a month on a five or six-month per year basis.

Ishpeming schools had only a 27 per cent cut in current expenses—Michigan schools, 38 per cent.

The increase in interest payments in Michigan for this year will be 33 per cent.

At least 500,000 Michigan children were affected when school districts shortened their terms one month, although Michigan's term was already very low compared with Europe.

The teaching staff has decreased 13 per cent—enrollment has increased 2.4 per cent.

So runs the sad indictment all through the United States.

Last year, two and a quarter millions of children received no education at all.

In three years, more than one out of four United States cities have decreased the length of the school term, already very low as compared to Europe.

School terms today are one or two months shorter than a hundred years ago.

The average school term for the United States shows up very inadequately when compared to some of the European countries; the United States has an average of 172 school days per year; Hitler's Germany and the little country of Denmark have school terms of 246 days a year or 43 per cent longer than ours; while France, Sweden, and England all have school terms of 210 days or 16 per cent longer than ours.

Current expenses in United States city schools decreased $54,000,000 last year.

Capital outlay, $29,000,000.

Interest payments increased by $1,360,000.

The situation for cities of less than 10,000 will be worse than for larger places.

One out of every three American school teachers makes less than an unskilled factory worker, or $750 a year.

Eighty-four thousand rural teachers receive less than $450.

Unpaid salaries are now over $40,000,000.

Approximately 200,000 certified teachers are unemployed. This is bad enough, but when we realize that the teachers who remain on the job have more than a million more pupils now than in 1930, and that the number of teachers working has decreased by 25,000, it becomes obvious that classes have become very much larger and the instruction correspondingly of a lower quality and quantity.

When conditions such as these are encountered in business, the business takes on more help; in the educating of the American youth this has not happened.

All of this has been done under the guise of economy. Economy in the schools is the easiest of all governmental economies to bring about; consequently the first government service to be curtailed is the one of education.

Because of the hungry lust for economy, human obligations have been subordinated to the interest on debt, a paper obligation; 18 cents out of every tax dollar spent, is used to pay interest on debts;—only 17 cents of the tax dollar goes for the support of education. During the last few years we have come to consider education—a human obligation—of less consequence and importance than paper values.

We believe that democratic government is possible only through education. Recently we have heard alarming talks of a dictatorship for the United States. Such a step can be avoided only if education can successfully train a good citizenry. Retrenchments, other than cutting and curtailment of education, could have been made, if our public officials had not taken the path of "the least resisters."

War, for instance. War, past, present, and future, takes 76 per cent of every dollar which you pay—education only gets a paltry 17 per cent. Re-organization of the governmental structure, especially country and township, would be another phase. A statement made by Judge Lacy of Detroit will give you a more concrete idea of what I mean. "In Michigan there is a block of nine continuous counties with a population of 47,000 and an assessed valuation of only $31,500,000 where they maintain nine county governments, nine sets of county officers, nine county courts, nine court houses, nine jails, nine boards of supervisors, 93 township governments and 93 township boards and sets of township officers; 14 city and village governments and 14 common and village councils and sets of city and village officers."

These, of course, would require more industry on the part of our public servants, than cutting education, but the results would be beneficial rather than harmful.

Tonight we have had presented a bill of particulars with 26 counts in it, against the present excessive economies in education. We have shown that children everywhere, future men and women, are being forced to carry the burdens of the depression. We have shown that this is so purely because the educational system offered less resistance to economy than other fields. We have shown that other, greater, and actually beneficial, although more difficult, economies are possible.

In closing, I quote from Mr. George F. Zook, Commissioner of Education of the United States: "Schools do not belong exclusively to the children, the teachers, or the superintendents. They are the common property of us all, and in the long run there must be public assent for every important change of educational policy and for every provision for financial support. My plea to the men and women who earn and spend the incomes from our fields and factories, whether blessed or not with the personal care of little children, is to remember your responsibility to the youth of this land."

Let us resolve not to make the children pay for the depression.

CLARENCE VINGE

VALEDICTORY—EDUCATION AND THE NEW DEAL

The New Deal is a reorganization of our economic system to prevent the recurrence of depressions. While similar experiments have progressed all over the world, the United States has really only begun its attempt to substitute for the old, individual, competitive arrangement a co-operative society, whose development must be controlled so as to give what was lacking in the old order. Our government is trying to lay the foundation for the New Deal peacefully by making production and demand equal, by giving men work, and by regulating and even controlling industry, if necessary. President Roosevelt has stated that "the crisis can be met, but not in a day or a year, and education is a vital factor in the meeting of it."

Success of the whole experiment depends to a large extent upon the schools of today. The rising generation must be taught the underlying ideals of this new philosophy of life and government and in time help to replace the old errors by real democracy—the goal of all civilization. Teamwork and sportsmanship must be emphasized, training youth to strive for not their individual profit but for the good of society. James A. Farley, Postmaster General, says: "Education and democracy are natural partners. Without the former, representative government cannot stand. The pillars of democracy are secure only when resting upon the high qualities of the individual citizen."

During the past three years much has been said and written about the "fads and frills" that ought to be eliminated from the curriculum of the public schools. While no one disputes the value of the three R's, we all realize that our complex society demands something more. The past winter our own county found many adults attending the F. E. R. A. schools. What subjects did they choose? Records show enrollments in classes in economics, government, cooking, music, fine arts, industrial arts, and other subjects that have been designated as "fads and frills." What happened in Marquette County was duplicated throughout the country. These facts prove that the grown-ups themselves felt that the "fads and frills" gave them what they needed for readjustments in modern life. Furthermore, by such experiences adults will become more tolerant of what is being attempted in our schools and will encourage youth in their study of subjects that will bring about an improved social order.

It has been estimated that of the 168 hours in a week only 30 or 35 will in the future be spent by a person on his regular occupation; in other words, his unemployed hours will be more numerous than those spent on his work. What will be done with all the leisure time? Our curriculum may have to include both avocational and vocational training. Boys and girls may profitably be taught to cultivate hobbies; skill in the handicrafts, too, will furnish much satisfaction, because they bring a sense of achievement. Any subject or activity that will broaden a person mentally, steady him morally, or strengthen him physically ought to be worth while and cultivated for leisure hours. John H. Finley, associate editor of The New York Times, has given a leisure commandment for adults: "Remember the days of thy leisure to keep them holy. Thou shalt do with all thy might and skill thy share of the work of the world, whether on land, at sea, or in the heavens above the earth. Thou shalt keep as hallowed thy time of leisure and find thine hours of unemployment blest by thy best use of them."

Within the next decade our educational system will undergo more changes than it has during any period of its history. The time may not be far distant when education of men and women will become just as important and common as that of boys and girls and will center in the public schools.

Classmates: So far we have been more fortunate than the youth in many parts of our country. Those of us who cannot continue our studies in college or university must not think that our education has been completed. We certainly ought to be able to improve our opportunities by pursuing further the lines of thinking in which we have been instructed and by approaching with open minds new subjects that may range from recreational sports to the study of music and art. Before long we shall be the electorate of our country; as such, we need to be intelligent, informed, and alert so that our government by our votes will be in the hands of political leaders who are trained for their work, and who will do this work honestly. Should we enter politics, then let our opinions and decisions be governed by the standards of righteousness and not by personal advantage and greed. We must do our part to make the New Deal a success.

To you, our parents and friends, we express our sincere appreciation and gratitude for all sacrifices made for us and all interest shown in our welfare. Let us unite our efforts so that our mental and spiritual horizons may be broadened until our ideals will include not only our own but international welfare and happiness.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

"There they go, those jolly Juniors, away for a rousing vacation!" exclaimed Cicero, as he descended from his customary position in the Latin room, and slid down the banister to the second floor for his annut chat with the Thinker in his nook near Mr. Johnson's office.

"Here you are, Cicero! How are you?" inquired the Thinker as he clasped his friend's hand. "I'll certainly miss that crowd, although I must admit it will be a relief to relax for a few months without such noise as these Juniors make."

"Yes, indeed," replied Cicero, "These peppy Juniors have fine lungs —especially, I have been told, at class meetings."

"Now—Cicero! But they have made themselves heard in public speaking. During their Freshman year they won recognition in debate and declamations, and have enthusiastically participated during their Sophomore and Junior years. Some of them are mighty fine debators."

"And aren't you proud of the turnout they have given Miss Bentley? The Junior Class was well represented in the Mixed Chorus, Girls' Glee Club, Girls' Chorus, Boys' Glee Club, and Orchestra."

"Not only have they musical talent, but artistic ability as well. Why, right there in that showcase is a marvelous sample of the Junior President's ability," and the Thinker pointed to a drawing.

"And didn't they show their talent in decorating the Gym for the Prom?"

"Yes, Cicero, that Dutch idea was just too clever for words."

"This class certainly has high social inclinations; their Sophomore party, which was a decided success proved to be good training for presenting the Junior Prom."

"And recall the miraculous manner in which they have aided the basketball and football teams. Why, even as Freshman, they contributed their share; they added more when Sophomores; and this year—well, isn't that basketball trophy simply handsome? They helped to win that."

"Don't forget the girls, Thinker! Have you seen their pinball trophies?"

"Yes, Cicero, and the Juniors so willingly cooperated with Miss Small and Mr. Watson to make the exhibition a huge success."

EDNA KANDELIN

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

With hopes as shining and dispositions as sunny as that eventful day, September 8, 1933, we 211 Sophomores joined the regiments of the so-called "credit chasers," but with a sad farewell to the 37 deserters of our ranks. Incensed with the ardor of the opening of the school year, we began the whirl of activities by an election of class officers under the supervision of Miss Loubert, to whom we are deeply indebted for her whole-hearted cooperation, patience, and zeal in counseling us in the administration of class affairs. The victors of the election, conducted in a manner which became graduates of high school infancy, were the following:

President .....Arvid Munson
Vice President .....Paul Kelly
Secretary .....Bernhard Hillila
Treasurer .....Lowell Holmgren
Student Council.....Thelma Heikkila and Frank Sarvello

Calmly indifferent to the throes of Freshmen, we zestfully plunged into our school work, ferreted out even the tiniest crumbs of knowledge lurking between the covers of our texts, only to emerge several months later with the one and only solace—the approach of Christmas vacation. However, the close of the hilarious vacation struck fresh terror into our hearts—examinations loomed on the horizon. Nevertheless, we survived the ordeal and were well represented on the semester's honor roll.

April 20, 1934, marked the oft-mentioned event—the Freshman-Sophomore Party which played a prominent part in the school's calendar. Various sources of entertainment—dancing, ping-pong, bunco, lotto, checkers—stamped the party as a brilliant success.

In the school's curriculum the class has not been out-done by other classmen. A glance at the names of participants in musical organizations, debate, declamations, and athletics will disclose the names of many Sophomores. This class has been prominent in scholarship also. The efforts of the following have merited a place on the honor roll:

This successful school year has added to our store of pleasant memories, a wealth of recollections to which we hope to add the riches of our junior year. May each and every one of us uphold in the coming years all the honors and fine achievements of our class and continue to increase its merit.

FRESHMAN CLASS

This year's Freshman Class, although smaller in number than in recent years, has indicated during the course of the year that it does not lack for quality, for many of its members have striven for the best that the school has to offer and have contributed much toward school life by participating in its various activities.

The total enrollment of the class is 184, 100 boys and 84 girls, approximately 70 less than the Freshman classes of 1931 and 1932. This number is made up of 131 pupils from the Grammar School, six from Diorite, six from West Ishpeming, eight from North Lake, five from other schools in this or other states, nine from St. John's Parochial, and 21 repeaters.

During the course of the year twelve Freshmen dropped school and two transferred to other schools. Thirty-five have been neither absent nor tardy for the year. The average attendance for the year is 97 per cent, a trifle above the average.

On April twentieth the class joined with the Sophomores in the annual Freshman-Sophomore party. This was an unusually successful one, approximately 200 from the classes attending.

Those who made the Honor Roll and Honorable Mention are:

HEMATITE

DEDICATION TO MR. FARRELL

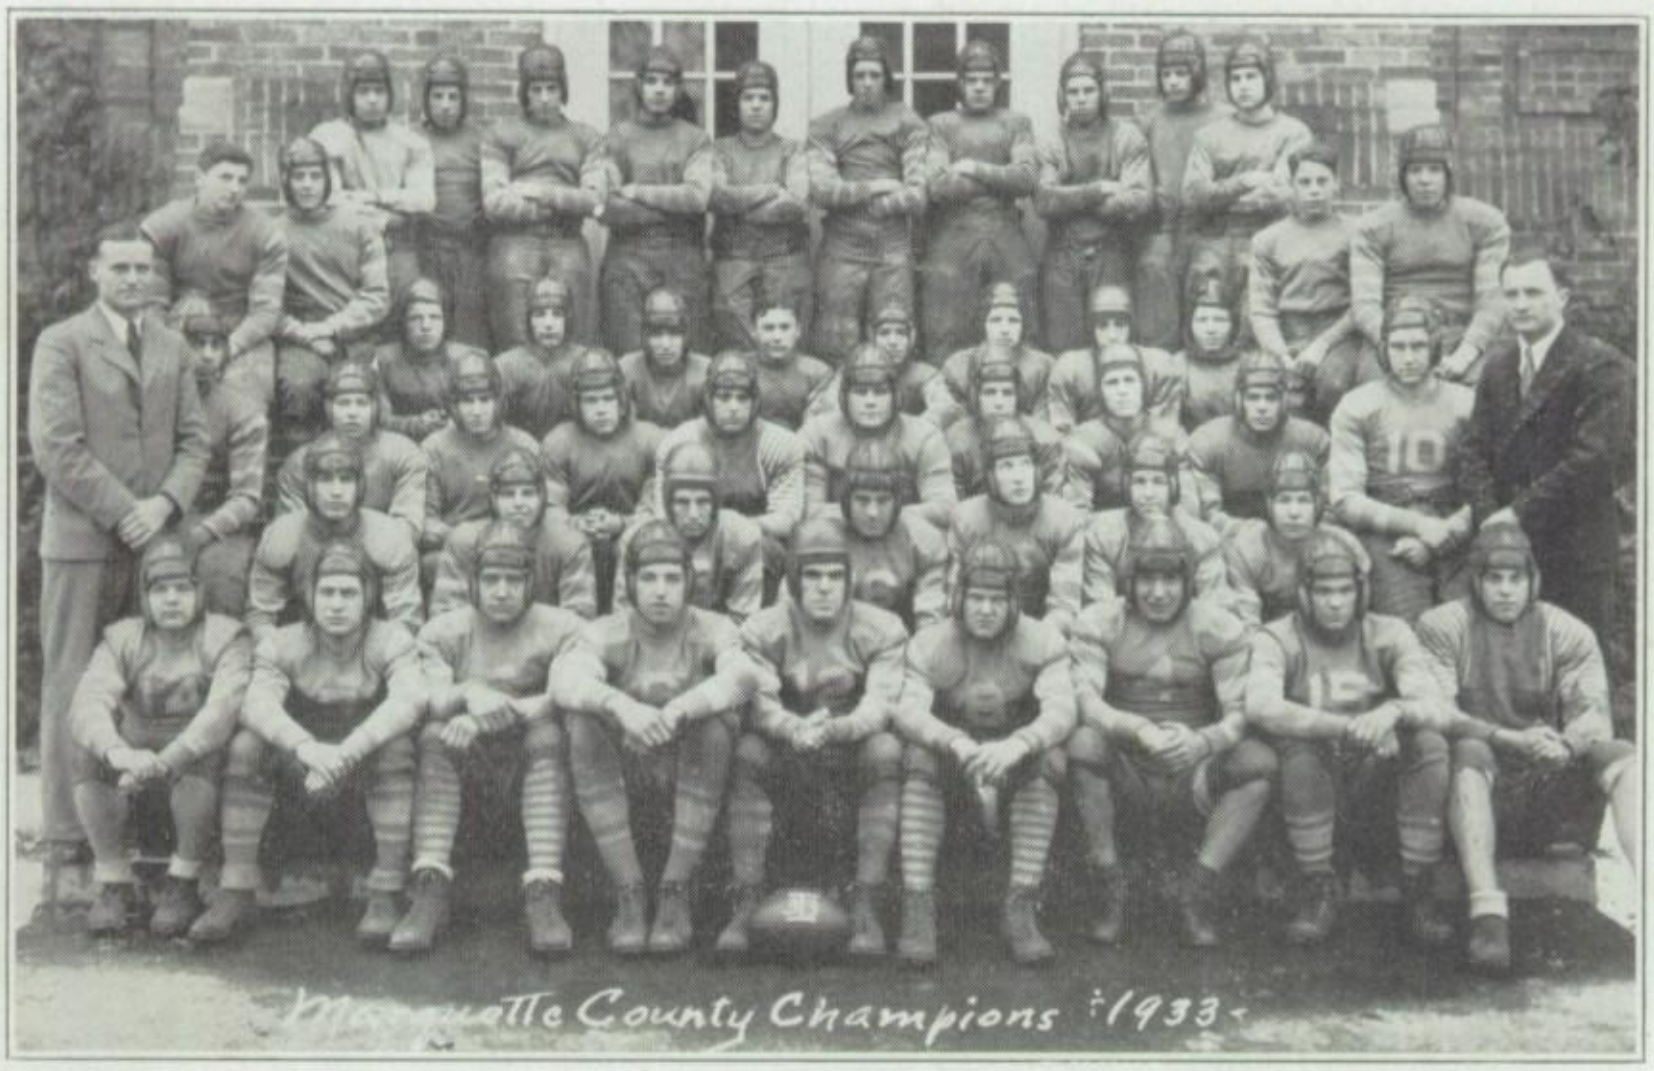
To Assistant Coach Farrell, the graduating Class of 1934 respectfully dedicate the Athletic Department of the 1934 Annual.

Mr. Farrell who has been with the Ishpeming High School since 1929 has made an enviable record for himself. During his first year here he organized the first "B" football and basketball teams to represent the High School. Mr. Farrel has also organized the I. H. S. baseball teams. He has given his time and efforts cheerfully in working up teams that would bring credit and honors to the school.

Although his teams are not counted as being important by many, it is through them that material for the first team is found. Many of the outstanding stars on the first teams have had previous training under Mr. Farrell.

He has turned out several teams that have made records for themselves. In 1930 his football team won seven out of eight games. This year's basketball team kept in time with the first squad as far as the number of wins is concerned, since they too, lost only one game out of the thirteen played.

Mr. Farrell has been an invaluable aid to Mr. Watson and very often his teams have provided the first team with real opposition in practice games. Of the players on the first team who are graduated this year, five of them have seen service under Mr. Farrell in football, and five in basketball. This is a record that anyone might be proud of, and Assistant Coach Farrell is due a big hand for his splendid work during the last five years. May his efforts in future years be always crowned with success.



FOOTBALL

Playing with one of the lightest teams in years the Hematites played more successfully for the 1933 season than had any other team in the last few years.

I

The season was opened with the Blue and White engaging the Soo at Legion Park. No score was made until the fourth quarter, when Ripley of the Soo broke away for a touchdown. The try for the point was missed. Score: Ishpeming 0, Sault Ste. Marie 6.

II

On September 22 the Ishpeming squad rolled over the Marquette Redman to an impressive 13 to 0 victory. The scoring was made in the first and last quarters, when the Ishpeming team tore through the stubborn Marquette defense.

III

Friendly rivals met on September 28 at Negaunee, where the Hematites were held to a scoreless tie by the Miners. This was a surprise as Ishpeming was doped to win.

IV

October 7 turned out to be a day better suited for ducks than for football. Playing at Gladstone, the Ishpeming team lost a hard game on a muddy field to the Kielmen. Score: Ishpeming 0, Gladstone 7.

V

The next game was played at Marquette. The Redmen showed surprising strength and a real contest ensued. Exceptional playing by both teams made scoring difficult. When the players were unscrambled and the game ended, Marquette was on top, the score being Ishpeming 2, Marquette 7. Ishpeming put over a touchdown in the last few seconds of play, but it was disqualified because the receiver of the pass was offside.

VI

October 21 proved to be a big day for the Hematites. Playing at Calumet, they defeated the Copper City crew 27 to 2. This game was

BASKETBALL

The basketball team that represented the Ishpeming High School for the 1933-34 season was one of the finest teams ever to play before the fans of the Upper Peninsula. Winning seventeen games out of eighteen, they showed a style of playing that will always be remembered and hard to excel.

The schedule for the year called for fourteen games, eight of which were to be played on the home floor.

I

The season opened on November 29 with the Blue and White taking an easy game from the Stambaugh quint to the tune of 32 to 17. Ishpeming played steadily throughout the entire game, leaving no loopholes through which the visiting team might break.

II

On December 8 the Hematites outplayed the Manistique team at Manistique and defeated them 38 to 11. It was in this game that the fine team-work was brought out that distinguished the team later on in the season.

III

December 15 was marked with excitement as Ishpeming was to engage with Iron Mountain, last year's "B" champions. Ishpeming, however, showed that champions meant nothing to them by sending the Flivver City quint down to an ignoble 33 to 6 defeat.

IV

On December 23 Ishpeming met the only team that turned out to be their conquerors. In a fast close game the Class "A" Wausau, Wis., team took a nip and tuck battle from the Hematites. The score was close through the entire game and it was not until the last few minutes that the Wausau team ran ahead. The score was Ishpeming 22, Wausau 24.

V

On January 12 the Redmen of Marquette were administered a beating by the Hematites to the tune of 24 to 12. Neither of the two teams played as well as they might, and the game was rather slow.

VI

The Blue Devils of the Soo were next to bow to the Ishpeming quint.

In a fast game at the Soo, the Watsonites rolled up a 29 to 18 victory over Sault Ste. Marie.

VII

Negaunee trotted the same path as did the Soo, losing a 36 to 12 decision to the Blue and White, on the Negaunee floor. Setting the pace in the first few minutes of play, the Hematites did not slacken until they had walloped the Negaunee quint by a score three times that of the Miners' figure.

VIII

January 19 resulted in another victory for the Ishpeming team. Playing on their own floor, they defeated the Kielmen of Gladstone 28 to 14. From the start Ishpeming led the way.

IX

The Eskymos of Escanaba were next to bow before the victory march of the Watsonites. In a well played game at Escanaba the home boys outplayed their opponents to a score of 26 to 11.

X

In a fast game on February 3 in Marquette the Hematites again defeated the Redmen. At the half the score stood at 21 to 4 in our favor. The game ended with Ishpeming on the long end of a 32 to 19 count.

XI

On February 9, the Soo came to Ishpeming to stop the victory march of the Blue and White. They were doomed to bitter disappointment however since the Hematites subdued them 30 to 12.

XII

Negaunee was scalped for the second time when they met Ishpeming on February 16 on the Ishpeming floor. Before a huge crowd the Blue and White piled up 39 points to the Miners' 21. In this game, as in the one before, every member on the squad played.

XIII

On February 24 the Watsonites took a close game from Crystal Falls at Crystal Falls. Their opponents held them to 33 points while Crystal Falls scored 26.

XIV

The last game of the regular season was played on the home floor, The N. S. T. C. Freshmen came here on March 2 to do away with the high school team, but they were tucked away themselves very decisively. The Blue and White disposed of them to the tune of 36 to 15.

THE DISTRICT TOURNAMENT

The District Tournament was held at Negaunee, on March 8, 9 and 10. Playing Munising on the 9th, the Ishpeming boys upheld their reputation by defeating the Paper City boys 30 to 3. Munising did not score a field goal while Ishpeming made them almost at will.

By defeating Munising the Hematites were lined up with the Soo on the following day. This game was doped out to be a hard one for the Hematites because the Soo had shown such class in shooting long shots when they defeated Negaunee and Marquette. When the game ended however, the Ishpeming team had added another victory to its string. The score was Ishpeming 34, Soo 19. This gave Ishpeming the undisputed District Championship for the fourth straight time. The next step was to annex the Upper Peninsula title.

THE UPPER PENINSULA TOURNAMENT

Before a huge crowd in the N. S. T. C. Gym, on March 16, the Ishpeming squad blasted Escanaba's hopes by defeating them 38 to 24. At no time during the game did it appear that the Blue and White were in grave danger of being eliminated.

By defeating Hancock, Crystal Falls took the role of Ishpeming's rival for the deciding game. Excitement ran riot as Crystal Falls had shown real class the preceding night, and it was this team that had given the Ishpeming fans a scare in one of the scheduled games. Starting out with a bang in the first half the Hematite squad ran up enough points to let them take it easy for the remaining half. Crystal Falls played faultless basketball but they could not match the snap and precision of the wearers of the Blue. When the gun sounded, the score stood at 25 to 12 with Ishpeming at the top. This made it the eighth time that the Hematites had copped the U. P. title.

The 1933-34 team was exceptional. Every member played to the limit. It played as a team and not as five individuals. It made no difference when the second string men went in. The squad doubled their opponents' scores ten times, and tripled them five times. The players on the squad were as follows (those starred are graduating this year): E. Thomas, R. Kemp*, Captain, G. Butler*, L. Butler, J. Jacobs, C. Nault*, L. Goodney, E. Konster, W. Manley, W. Bietila*, A Munson and V. Pesola*.

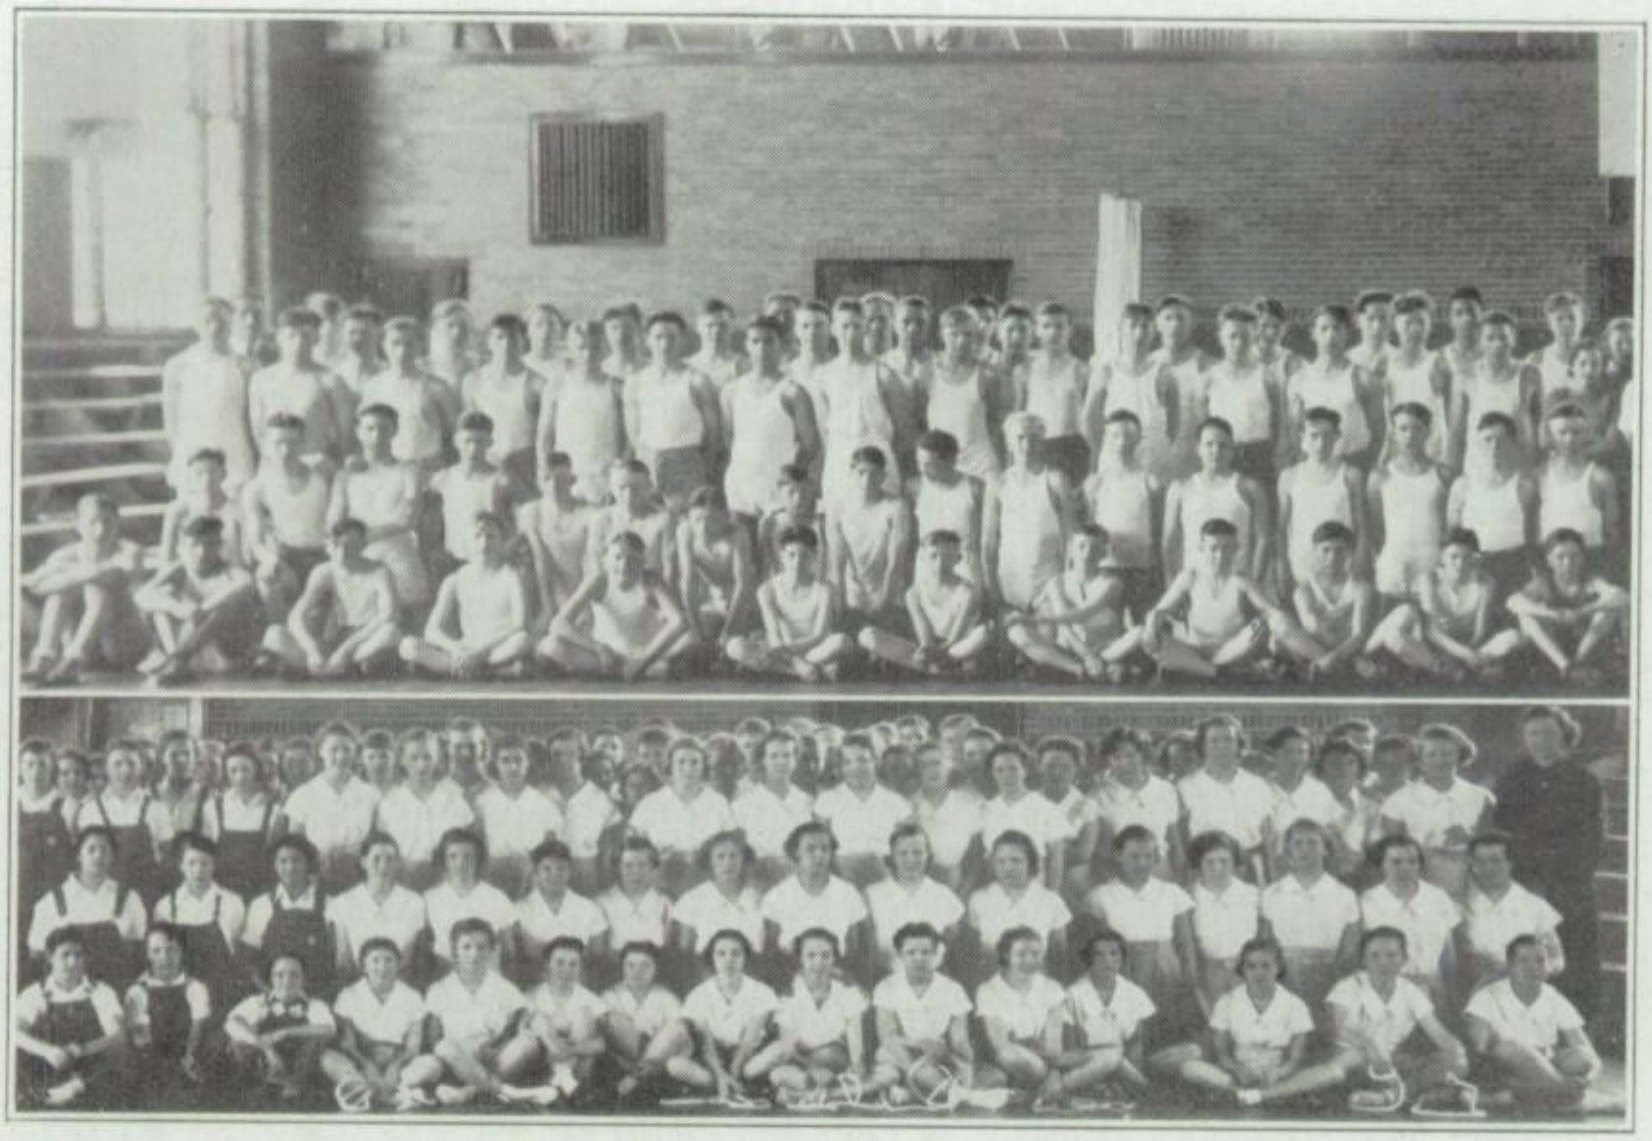
FOOTBALL (Continued)

marked by the fine passing of the Ishpeming team. Victory was sweet, for Calumet has always been a stumbling block to the Blue and White for the past few years.

VII

To decide the county championship Ishpeming was scheduled to play Negaunee at Legion Park. Inclement weather however forced the teams to wait a week later than the date set by schedule. On November 3 the rivals met, resulting in an overwhelming victory for the Hematites. Nothing could hold them back, and when the game was over they led the Miners 19 to 0.

The 1933 team won three games, lost three games and tied one. They scored 61 points to their opponents 22. Through graduation the team loses the following players: R. Markert, C. Nault, Captain L. Paddock, L. Nault, R. Trembath, R. St. Andre, W. Bietila, V. Pesola, L. Amell and J. Lafkas.



SECOND SQUAD BASKETBALL

Although they did not get the publicity that the first team did, Coach Farrell's team did exceptionally well in the 1933-34 season. Playing thirteen games they won twelve of them. One of the games they staged gave the fans more thrills than the first team game did. This was when Negaunee came here. In a fast over-time game they defeated the Negaunee "B" team 24 to 26.

The second team furnished the fans with good basketball in preliminary games all through the season and should get a word of encouragement from the fans.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

In the sport section of the I. H. S. Studio the cameras merrily clicked away, recording every play in the annual pinball tournament for girls. The team representing the Satellites walked off with highest honors and that of the Extra's took second place. The winning team was captained by Helen Zhulkie and the other players were:

Catcher, Germaine Gauthier; first base, Helen Zhulkie; second base, Hazel Elson; third base, Bernadette LeMay; shortstops, Dorothy St. Onge, and Marguerite Scoble; pitcher, Jean Kennedy; fielders, Aili Salo, Armina Nault, and Ruth Makela.

Each player of the winning team received a trophy as a mark of distinction. Pinball is played every Friday during the regular gym classes, Monday being devoted to dancing and exercising and Wednesday to swimming. The girls taking swimming are required to complete a chart consisting of many different strokes, dives, floats and endurance records. After each girl has completed her chart, she is presented with an emblem, and after this she may take up advanced diving or lifesaving.

Jean Anderson, a Satellite, has established a record in swimming under water. She has swam under water the entire length of the pool.

ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES

HI-Y CLUB

The Hi-Y Club, under the supervision of Mr. Mattson, has experienced a very successful year.

Activities for the year included the Freshman Stag, attendance at the U. P. Older Boys' Conference held in Ishpeming, and a Father and Son Get-Together.

Through the sale of bars at games, programs at the ski tournament, and by checking clothes at the President's Ball, a sufficient fund has been procured to purchase an electric score board for the gymnasium.

The purpose of the club is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character.

Their platform is clean speech, clean sportsmanship, clean living, and clean scholarship.

GIRLS' LITERARY UNION

This little group of players, composed of Extras and Juveniles have lived up to their contract with persistence, under the guidance of their ardent director, Miss Vivian. This year, beside having submitted two productions, "Silas Marner," and "Why Ethyl Didn't Go,' these young actresses have done commendable charity work.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

The male vocal cast of the Hematite Studios, under the able directorship of Miss Helen Bentley enjoyed a very successful year. With their talent they entertained the Freshmen at the annual "Frosh Stag," the Town Club at a noonday luncheon, the teachers of the Upper Peninsula at the M. E. A. annual convention, the fathers and sons at the Father and Son "Get Together" and the people of Ishpeming at a concert held May 11. This able cast is looking forward to next year, when they hope to repeat their splendid performance.

THE COMMERCIAL CLUB

The opening scene of the 1933-34 Commercial Club was set in Room 203, under the direction of the Misses Dunn and Eklund. The setting of scenes 2 and 3 took place at the Northern Dairy Company and The Mather Inn. Mr. Heiden, manager of the J. C. Penney Company store in Ishpeming, took the cast in hand in scene 4 and took up department store management.

The managers of the Club are:

THE FOREIGN STARS PRESENT

La Seance est ouverte! (The meeting is called to order.)
We shall begin by singing "La Marseillaise."
Election of officers.
Frère Jacques (Round.)
Style Show (a display of the holiday dress of four of the main provinces of France including Normandy and Brittany.)
Il était un Bergère—French Folk Song and Dance.
La Ville de Lyon—a talk on Lyon. The book which illustrated the talk was one sent to the pupils of Marquette in exchange for one of that city.
La Faim est un Grand Inventeur—a play showing the difficulties one may encounter in a foreign country when one has only a slight knowledge of the language of the country.

This French program, presented by the French "Stars" of the high schools of the Upper Peninsula at the Teachers' Convention held in Ishpeming in October 1933, attempts to arouse the interest and increase the knowledge of French and France in the future stars.

Miss Loubert, the Director of the Foreign Stars, has done a great deal of strenuous work with the cast and the productions have been very successful.

ORATION

Much interest has been shown in public speaking this year. The orations were outstanding in their originality and thought A striking oration, "An Apostle of Beauty," written on the subject of John Keats, was given by Ruth Morgan, who won first place in the local Oratorical Contest.

Clarence Vinge ..... "Poisons That Pave the Way"
Patricia Ryan ..... "Youth, Educated, But Unemployed"
Margery Hawes ..... "The Futility of War"
Elizabeth Wahl ..... "Education and Liquor Control"

DECLAMATION

The Declamatory Contest had a goodly share of contestants this year. From a group of fifteen Freshman and Sophomores, the following participated in the final local contest.

Stella Racine gave the famous declamation "Valley of Bones" by James R. Cretcher and won first place.

DEBATE

With splendid enthusiasm, our Publicity Department went forth to uphold the traditions established by former Debate teams. As a whole, the year 1934 has been a successful one for the squad, as fine material was discovered for the next year's team. The question for debate was, Resolved: "That All Radio Broadcasting in the U. S. Should Be Conducted in Stations Owned and Controlled by the Federal Government."

JUNIOR PROM

The Prom given by the Satellites was held in the Ballroom of the Hematite Studio, decorated to resemble a Dutch setting. A huge blue cobweb formed the false ceiling from which twelve small orange windmills were suspended, furnishing the light. A large mill graced the center.

At the western end of the Ballroom a Holland homestead was cleverly portrayed. The yard, enclosed by a white picket fence, contained a house, and a large windmill from which punch was served. Colored tulips were growing about the yard, and a broad walk connected the mill and the house. Several of the Satellites acted the part of Dutch ladies.

Joe LaVigne's seven-piece orchestra entertained from a large wooden shoe.

The Dutch atmosphere was successfully completed by the small wooden shoes which were presented to each girl at the end of the Grand March. On each side was printed "Junior Prom, '34."

CALENDAR

SEPTEMBER

5 School opens; something must be wrong, an extra session for the Freshies.

6 Heart-throbs for the new teachers—one's married. Just our luck.

7 Oh where, oh where have our Freshmen gone? It looks as though a midget show just entered school.

8 Mr. Ritzman tried to fool us, but we know it's the old car with a new coat of paint.

15 The Soo football players are here. The girls try to keep them out all night.

16 The girls could not have succeeded last night, the Soo won the football game, 6 to 0.

22 We all feel sad today. Our classmate, Dick Matthews is leaving today for a Southern city.

23 Marquette comes down confidently and goes home a trifle downcast, Ishpeming wins the game, 13 to 0.

25 Freshies, the girls, waiting for bids to the Freshman Stag, and will their faces be red. That's all right, it happens every year.
26 Mr. Renz gives a musicale in English. Tenors are needed in the Glee Club, Mr. Renz.
27 Out come the compacts. The girls return from the fire-drill with faces full of soot.
28 Jean Johnson writes a poem entitled "Alone," since when?
29 A pep meeting was held in the auditorium, and secrets were revealed by Mr. Farrel. The Freshman Stag was held, with the girls feeling slighted.
30 The usual clash in football with Negaunee, both were held scoreless.

OCTOBER

2 George Elias entertained the student body today. The dignified Seniors take their seats in the front, to set an example to the others.
4 The school is being cleaned and polished for the Convention. How nice we look.
5 Mr. Townsend receives a bouquet of flowers from—the janitor.
6 The Teachers' Institute. A vacation for the students. The Girls' Glee Club makes a name for themselves by their numbers.
7 The Gladstone and Ishpeming game, G. Butler is out because of his arm. He must have been missed. The score—7 to 0.
9 Fire Prevention Week is well observed. The students have pamphlets to read to learn what to do is case they ever come across such. What would you do if you lost the pamphlet?
10 Fame coming to a few poets of the Senior Class—original poems of the class read at the Service Club by Mr. Renz.
11 Mr. Maynard gives Bill Millman a book to read "Why Some People Won't Work." Anything personal meant by it?
13 The social events started this year with the Senior Class Party. As usual, it was a success. Many dared the misfortunes to come. What! Tests today? Is that luck, we ask you.
14 Ed. Thomas is back in the game with Marquette and Ishpeming, down there. The final score was 7 to 2. Better luck next year.
16 A new book is in the school library. The "Anthology" of the poets of the Senior Class. We are getting up in the world.
18 A new coach has been added to the staff. Mr. Renz is the Coach in Love. He's giving Seniors hints on how to get her and keep her.
20 The G. L. S. entertained the girls of the school with a Kid's Party. The Freshies felt right at home.
21 Ishpeming goes to Calumet and lets them know they are there. The team had Sivula and Jacobs back. No wonder they piled the score up to 27 to 0, and came home so victorious.
27 Mr. Maynard used to take the debators to the Chocolate Shop. Now he took them to his home. Economizing, Mr. Maynard?
28 The Negaunee and Ishpeming football game was postponed, the cold north wind blew down some snow.
31 Mr. Renz lost his way to Morgan Heights last night. He claims it's his nature to be slow.

NOVEMBER

1 Billies C. and M. decide to marry girls from their Economics Class and then they can finish these budgets the class has to make.
4 Ishpeming plays the last football game of the season with Negaunee, defeating them 19 to 0. G. Butler's girl must have been watching on the side lines, and he had to make a good impression.
6 Worried looks, and more of them. The cards are issued for the first time this year. As usual, one hears the never ending resolution, still being made, "I'm going to study this quarter and show him."
11 Armistice Day—and on a Saturday, too. Luck for us.
15 Billy C. fell off his chair in Physics. What did you find, Billy?
16 George Campbell entertains at the assembly. We all wish we could attend the Conference and hear him again.
17 The Older Boys' Conference begins. The girls are kept busy running around entertaining them.

20 All that can be heard is the chatter of the girls, "Did you see him? Wasn't he good looking?"
21 Corporal R. Sullivan, of the State Police, gave an interesting talk to the assembly. Who'd be afraid with all those guns around.
23 We were thrilled to have Dr. Gould, of the Antarctic Expedition with Admiral Byrd, tell us all about his trip. And we thought it was cold up here.
24 The Junior Class entertained the Seniors at their party. Of course it couldn't be as good as ours, but we certainly enjoyed ourselves. Iron Mountain won the debate from Ishpeming. And we thought the debators had a "gift of gab."
29 The basketball season starts, with Ishpeming winning the first game from Stambaugh, 34 to 18. The boys must have been thinking of the Thanksgiving dinner.

DECEMBER

4 School is resumed, and we feel great after the vacation.
6 "Mae West" Jaedecke is teaching the girls how to talk with their eyes. Competition, maybe he can double for her sometime.
8 After the good start in basketball, the boys decide to keep it up at defeating Manistique with the score, 33-11. This must be a lucky day, the debate team wins, too, from Gladstone.
15 A good old-fashioned pep meeting was held, to encourage the boys tonight. The yelling wasn't in vain. The game ended in Ishpeming's favor, 33-6.
18 A few of the players in the Christmas play began to put make-up on very artistically, but a trifle early. The play isn't until Friday, we informed them.
19 By the way, did you see Jimmer Jacobs last week end? He was sporting a derby. Oh, Jimmer!
20 Talking about Jimmer, could someone please show him a short-cut to E. Michigan Street? It's quite a walk to have to take very often.
22 The Christmas program was given, and it was a success. Although vacation began, a large crowd out to see Wausau and Ishpeming play a close game. The final score was 24-22 in favor of the visitors.
27 The Hi-Y Party was held during vacation, and we must say that the boys can give parties.

JANUARY

5 Ishpeming played down Negaunee during the vacation, and came home victorious, 36-12.
8 School again, groans, and sighs. But only one semester more, after the exams.
10 Theodore M. started a saying, that's quite popular with the boys, after the Hi-Y Party. "My woman was hungry, too." Sounds as if someone has an appetite, wonder who it is?
12 The usual Marquette and Ishpeming game caused a lot of worry, at first, but the boys came through, winning the game with a score of 24-12. To the secret sorrow of the girl debators, they lost to Manistique.
13 The basketball team traveled all the way to the Soo, and came home with flying colors, 29-18. Not a bad bunch.
15 A deep secret! A Senior and a Freshman, Doug C. and Alice J., weren't on speaking terms for awhile, so they solved the problem by writing notes to each other. That's using the brains as they should be used.
19 Again the basketball team won. This is getting to be a habit, but not a bad one. This time Gladstone was defeated 14-28.
23 Worried looks, and more of them. Exams. What did we do to deserve this!
26 The Exams didn't scare the boys in any way. This time it was Escanaba's turn to take a beating, 11-16.
29 The faces have a normal expression again. It's a relief to get the news, no matter how bad. As you guess, it's report cards.

FEBRUARY

1 The debate team makes a grand exit for this year by winning the debate at Negaunee.

2 The G. L. U. and Minerva held a party, inviting the rest of the girls of the school.

3 What, again? This is certainly a good habit that the B. B. boys formed. Marquette was again defeated 19-32. The cast of the "Three Wise Fools" gave a preview of the play at an assembly.

6 Bob J. has come to the conclusion that you've got to be a basketball hero like Ed. Thomas to get along with—?

9 Ishpeming and Soo clashed, the game ending with the score of 30-12 in Ishpeming's favor.
14 Did the boys remember that today is Valentine's Day, or doesn't it account for the blushes of some girls?
16 Negaunee came to Ishpeming all set to go home as the victors, but went home not as proudly, the score 39-21.
20 Try outs for the Senior Class Play. All would-be stars turned out
21 The cast for the play was selected. The Glee Clubs held a party in the gymnasium. Did we have fun? Just ask us! No school tomorrow.
23 The local declamatory contest was held in the assembly, with the Glee Club furnishing musical numbers. The basketball team fought it out with Crystal Falls, and won, 33-26.

MARCH

2 The District Tournament at Negaunee. Ishpeming drew Munising and kept themselves in the tournament by winning, 30-3. The local oratorical contest was held, and Ruth Morgan outclassed the others by winning.
3 Ishpeming and the Soo played for the District Championship. The Soo was overcome, 34-19.
16 The Regional Tournament in Marquette. A large student body backed the team, who came through as we hoped, defeatng Escanaba 35-24.
17 The boys, those marvelous fellows, brought the U. P. Championship to Ishpeming by vanquishing their foes, Crystal Falls, 25-12.
19 After watching the practice of the class play, we think Mary E. should ask George to come up to see her some time.
21 Mary and George take a course in love making, and still they flunk it at practice. The Hi-Y promoted the Father and Son Banquet.
23 The Senior Class Play, and was it a success!
29 The Mixed Chorus gave an Easter Cantata for the students. Vacation, vacation, is all we can think about.

APRIL

9 School reopened after a vacation of a week. We feel able to stand the strain.
10 Buzz, buzz, my dress—it must be prom time.
12 Oh! Sea-sick from the waves in the girls' hair.
13 The Junior Prom.
16 Spread the news gently—cards. Will bad news never end!
19 Miriam day in fourth period German Class. For the benefit of E. T. Miss Conrad reads a story about Miriam.
20 Mr. Johnston entertained at an assembly, and sang several numbers for us. He dedicated "Sylvia" to Mr. Watson. The Freshman Party, an event for the Freshies.
21 "Streke" J. is asked to leave the 8:15 study hall. Three times and out for good.
23 Mr. Schultz speaks to the students.
24 We advise "Streke" J. to learn jiujitsu so that she can set Gertie L. on the floor like Gertie set her on the floor.

ALUMNI PLAYERS

On the evening of October 17, 1932, fifteen alumni of the Ishpeming High School met to organize a dramatic club. The organization was given the name, "Alumni Players." Officers were elected, a constitution was drawn up, and under the able direction of Mr. C. L. Phelps as counselor, Mr. Octaviur Townsend as director, and Mr. Thor Orem as assistant director, the Alumni Players have closed their second successful season.

The first play presented to the Ishpeming public was a four-act drama, "The Enemy." Then followed "Spooks,' a stirring mystery play. The next season was opened with a romantic comedy, "The Swan." "Three Wise Fools," a vivacious comedy, was then given, followed by another popular comedy, "The Show-Off." These were all highly creditable performances.

The purpose of the Alumni Players is to create an auditorium fund for the Ishpeming High School for the purpose of bringing professional talent to the community. A secondary purpose is to arouse interest in dramatics, thereby utilizing the many facilities offered in the new high school building.

Membership in this organization is limited to Ishpeming High School graduates. Following is a list of the members:

Chester Anderson
Kenneth Anderson
Dorothy Austin
Grace Austin
Roger Bergdahl

ALUMNI

The compilation of this list was a task far greater in itself than the preparation of the rest of the book. It meant checking upon 2,500 people, many of whom left Ishpeming a great many years ago. The staff was able to secure the addresses of about 900 alumni who at present reside outside of Ishpeming. Cards were sent to them asking for information. Unfortunately many failed to return the cards but we wish to express our thanks to those that did. We regret that it has been impossible to get the correct address of some and we have no way of knowing the occupation of many who did not return cards. If we have omitted the occupation do not assume the person is unemployed since perhaps we could not secure the necessary information.

The staff originally intended to list more information about each graduate, the college attended, and honors which they had received, but this information was so difficult to obtain and it would have taken so much space that the idea was abandoned shortly before the Hematite went to press. We hope that some future Hematite staff will carry on our work so that those of you who have achieved outstanding success may be recognized.

We hope that you alumni will overlook the errors that occur in our directory and that these pages will give you many hours of pleasure.
